

JACK HANLEY GALLERY

OBSERVER CULTURE

10 Things to Do in New York's Art World Before May 27

THURSDAY, MAY 26

By Ryan Steadman

Julia Benjamin. Photo: Courtesy of the artist

Opening: “Julia Benjamin, Sarah Braman & Nicole Cherubini” at Jack Hanley Gallery

If you're like “that all-women art show was good, but I want more,” then you're in luck: Captain Jack Hanley has put together a sweet, physical-looking three-woman show at his gallery. Ms. Benjamin attacks her canvases with chunky, muscular brushstrokes that abstract her varied imagery, Ms. Braman creates 3-D hybrid objects that burst with color (painted or otherwise) and Ms. Cherubini builds absurdist ceramics with careening ornamental flare. Together, they should be a force to be reckoned with.

Jack Hanley Gallery, 327 Broome Street, New York, 6-8 p.m.

327 Broome Street
New York, NY 10002
646.918.6824.
info@jackhanley.com